16th November 2008

John O. Brennan to join the Obama-Biden Transition Team

John O. Brennan, the President and CEO of The Analysis Corporation (TAC), a wholly owned subsidiary of Global Strategies Group (North America) Inc. has been named as a Team Lead for the Intelligence Community Review. Mr. Brennan previously served as a Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) official from 1980-2005, including positions such as the interim Director of the National Counterterrorism Center, Director of the Terrorist Threat Integration Center, Deputy Executive Director of the CIA, Chief of Staff to the Director of Central Intelligence, CIA Station Chief in Middle East and the CIA's daily intelligence briefer at the White House.

The Board of Directors of Global Strategies Group (North America) Inc. recently approved a temporary leave of absence for John in order to take on this important challenge. In the interim, Alex Drew, TAC's Vice President for Intelligence Operations & Analysis, will assume the duties and responsibilities of leading TAC during John's short sabbatical.
